GIRL FORGETS WHO SHE IS

Amnesia Victim Seeks Aid in Harlem

Police Station

A pretty, well dressed young woman entered the West 153d Street police station last night and asked Lieutenant Connor if she might rest. When he consented she sat silently for several minutes. Then she asked the lieutenant where she was. To his question she replied that she did not know who she was or where she had come from.

Unable to obtain further information from her, Lieutenant Connor called an ambulance from St. Lawrence's Hospital, and the girl was taken there. Dr. Fitzpatrick diagnosed her trouble as amnesia.

The girl is about twenty-four years old, 5 feet 4 inches tall, weighing 138 pounds, brunette, and was dressed in a dark purple suit, tan shoes, a large black hat and white shirt waist. At the hospital she said all she could remember was that her husband's name was Tommy.

The similarity of Tecla Pearls to deep sea Pearls extends even to the limitations which surround the source of supply!

Just as Nature controls and limits the supply of the ocean-borne Pearl, we also control and limit the supply of the famous Tecla Pearl.

Tecla Pearls can be bought only in the Tecla ateliers, or from our accredited representatives in Philadelphia and San Francisco.

8 STATE COUNTIES
LOST BY HUGHESHow Vote in New York
Was Divided—Wilson
Knifed in City

New York State was not in the doubtful column even Tuesday night, but a recapitulation of its vote on the final returns on President, Governor and United States Senator is interesting. Calder, with 1,093 districts missing, led his Democratic opponent, McCombs, by 94,921. Their respective votes, minus the missing districts, were: Calder, 683,353; McCombs, 508,782. Whitman led Seabury by 132,221, with 528 districts missing, their votes being: Whitman, 773,906; Seabury, 641,673. Hughes ran 101,136 ahead of Wilson in the state, leading Whitman in the city by nearly 1,000.

Wilson Cut in City

The New York City vote for the President was a grievous disappointment to his friends, who charged that his lead of 40,069 would have been considerably larger, in fact, sufficiently so to overcome the upstate majority, if Tammany had not knifed him. Hughes carried every county in the state, but eight: Chemung, Columbia, Schoharie, Washington, New York, Bronx, Kings and Richmond.

Next to the vote for these three, New Yorkers were interested in the contest for the presidency of the Board of Aldermen between Frank Dowling and Henry Curran, the latter being defeated by Tammany's candidate by a majority considerably lower than had been estimated. Independent voters were satisfied with the result of the Supreme Court contest, their favorites, Mullin and Davis, being elected, while their third choice, Clark, was defeated by Mitchell, the Democratic candidate.

The Result in Brooklyn

In Brooklyn James C. Crosey defeated his Democratic opponent, Philip A. Brennan, by 22,212. In the same borough Harry E. Lewis, the Republican candidate for District Attorney, won out over James T. O'Neill, Democrat, and William B. Carswell, Independent League and American party, by 26,055. Walsh defeated Strassburger and Edelson, Republican and Independent League candidates, by 24,310, for Justice of the City Court in Manhattan and The Bronx. William D. Nipper, Republican, defeated James W. Redmond, Democrat, for Municipal Court Justice of the Sixth District (Brooklyn), by 5,533 over Thomas F. Doyle, Democrat.

The vote in the greater city for Chief Justice of the Court of Appeals was, likewise, a Republican triumph. Jenks, Democrat, 293,091. Jenks's plurality, 10,733. For Associate Justice of the Court of Appeals, Norton, Democrat, won by 27,902 over Pounds, the Republican candidate. Their vote was: Pounds, 273,601; Norton, 301,503.

In the fight between John F. McIntyre, Democrat, and James Delehanty, Republican, for Justice of the Court of General Sessions, the result may not be known for several days. With all the returns in but one election district, McIntyre has 109,670, and Delehanty, 108,551, giving McIntyre a lead of 516. Delehanty's friends, however, declare that fully 7,000 New York National Guardsmen on the border voted for Delehanty, and that their votes will swing the election.

BOTH SIDES URGE BALLOT GUARD

something with which to celebrate and somebody sent out for a couple of bands.

Within five minutes a parade had been organized and thousands of marchers were passing before the building, bombarding it with the remnants of banners, flags and noise-makers that had found small use in their hands the night before. All of the "I-told-you-so" signs that had been held back in doubt up to that moment came forth from mysterious hiding places, and everybody in any way influenced by the Democratic headquarters accepted the news as final.

It was not until later that the Wilson lead in Minnesota began to melt away and uneasiness again set in.

Prepared for Contest

Meanwhile, every precaution had been taken to make a contest possible under favorable conditions in the event of the defeat of the President. Attorneys had been consulted and telegrams had been sent to state and county chairmen in all the doubtful states calling upon them to safeguard the ballot boxes and make it impossible for them to be tampered with pending a possible recount.

It was reported that Delaney Nicoll and John B. Stanchfield, who visited Mr. McCormick late in the afternoon, had been consulted in relation to possible legal proceedings. Mr. McCormick refused to deny or affirm that this was the case.

"But you may be certain that if there are court proceedings we will be represented by the best counsel available," he added.

Attorney General Gregory was another caller at the national chairman's office who was thought to have discussed the legal phases of the situation. Neither party to the conference would comment upon the subjects under discussion by them.

A second conference among Chairman McCormick, Stanchfield, Mr. Nicoll, Mr. Morgenstau and other Democratic leaders was held last night at Democratic headquarters. According to rumor, the purpose of the conference was to plan election protests in several states, particularly New Hampshire and Minnesota. Word came that headquarters from Duluth that illegal voting was freely allowed there. Counter charges of fraud made by local party leaders in Minnesota and their unusual care in the count were blamed for the delay in getting accurate returns from that state.

Democratic headquarters attended an informal dinner given at the Waldorf-Astoria last night in honor of Robert W. Wooley, director of publicity of the national committee.

G. O. P. Leaders Sleepless

There was a nervous tension at Republican national headquarters all day. Chairman Willcox, Herbert Parsons and other members of the national committee had had no sleep for thirty-six hours. A score of prominent Republican leaders gathered in Mr. Willcox's office, where Charles B. Warren, of Michigan, read the returns from the state of New York, and the group they were received over the committee's private wires. Several prominent Republican lawyers were among those present.

Statements Conflicting

The rival campaign committees continued to issue bulletins last night, many of them conflicting and all provocative of enthusiasm to the crowds gathered in and around the headquarters.

At 10 o'clock last night Chairman McCormick claimed President Wilson was undoubtedly re-elected, with at least 288 electoral votes. According to his estimate, California, Minnesota and New Mexico, getting 22 electoral votes from those states.

Mr. McCormick expressed confidence that Wilson also would win in Oregon, although he was not sufficiently sure to claim the state as yet.

The Democratic chairman exhibited two telegrams from local leaders in San Diego and San Francisco, both of which claimed California for Wilson by a majority of 25,000. Mr. McCormick admitted this was only an estimate and that the President's lead in that state, so far as known, was only 5,000, with more than 800 precincts still to be heard from. All of these precincts, however, were Wilson strongholds, Mr. McCormick declared.

In Minnesota, Mr. McCormick said, the President's lead at the time was over 6,000, but he did not expect to win the state by any great margin.

Hughes Gains Cheer

It was an anxious crowd that thronged Republican headquarters, waiting for the last scattering returns which would mean so much in the close run race.

At 10:30, however, came news so good that cheers drowned the last of a series of bulletins. Secretary James D. Reynolds had climbed on a table to read them.

"California," he announced, "shows a plurality of 1,500 for Hughes on the complete returns."

Governor Hatfield informs us that Hughes has won in West Virginia by 5,200.

"Partial returns from New Mexico give Hughes a slight lead.

"In Minnesota the Wilson lead has been cut down 50 per cent."

Claims 280 for Hughes

At 12:30 a. m., by which time it had been admitted the announcement of a Republican victory in California was premature, Chairman Willcox gave out the following statement at national headquarters:

"Returns from the states in which the vote has been close have been coming in slowly. The delay appears to have been caused by the time required to get in reports from rural communities. The latest returns clearly indicate that Minnesota, North Dakota, New Mexico, Oregon and probably California, have gone for Hughes."

"These, added to the states already certain, give Hughes 280 electoral votes. Even if all or some of the electoral votes of California should go to Wilson, there still are enough left to insure the election of Hughes."

"Every precaution must be taken to insure an honest count of the ballots in the close state. Anybody who intimates that Charles Evans Hughes would permit any man or group of men to attempt to steal the Presidency from Mr. Hughes will do so at their peril. We want nothing more than a fair count. That we are going to have."

McCormick Claims Minnesota

Chairman McCormick issued a statement at midnight announcing he had received messages from Fred Lynch, state chairman of Minnesota, assuring him the state was for Wilson by a majority of about 1,000. The Democratic State Chairman of North Dakota wired Mr. McCormick Wilson had maintained a majority of 1,000 in that state all day, and that Hughes had been ahead at any time, despite Republican claims to the contrary.

It was also announced that "The San Francisco Chronicle," a Republican paper, conceded California to Wilson by a majority of 2,000.

State Chairman Watson, of West Virginia, asserted in a message to Mr. McCormick that Wilson was so far 5,000 in the lead in that state. Mr. McCormick reiterated his earlier prediction that Mr. Wilson would have 288 votes in the Electoral College.

BROWN OPPOSED
AS SENATE HEADArgetsinger and Walters
His Rivals — Whitman
Said to Favor Former

With both branches of the Legislature Republican by overwhelming majorities, politicians of both parties were wondering yesterday if the Republican leaders of the two houses, Senator Elton R. Brown and Thaddeus C. Sweet, would be re-elected. While there has been a little subsurface dissatisfaction with Sweet, who is Speaker of the Assembly, the opposition to him has not developed to the point where actual opponents to his leadership have cropped up. This is not so in the case of Senator Brown, a reactionary, who boasts of his adherence to the ancient order of things.

Brown Faces Two Rivals

There are two men put forth as rivals to Senator Brown for majority leadership of the Senate. They are Senators J. Henry Walters, of Syracuse, and George F. Argetsinger, of Rochester. The latter is chairman of the executive committee of the Republican State Committee and not only has the backing of Frederick C. Tanner, state chairman, but the support of Governor Whitman. Senator Walters's friends also claim the support of the Governor, but disinterested Republicans who are watching the preliminary fight place the Governor's support with Senator Argetsinger.

The Senate is Republican this year by twenty-five majority leadership. For the last two years the vote has been 34 to 17. The complexion of the Assembly has also remained substantially the same, but the Socialists for the first time in the history of the state have two representatives in the lower house. Last year they boasted of one, Abraham I. Shipplough, of Brooklyn. He was re-elected, with J. A. Whitehorn, a lawyer, of the Twenty-first Assembly District, Brooklyn, who won out over his Republican and Democratic opponents by the narrow margin of five votes.

Last year the Assembly was 97 Republican, 51 Democratic, 1 Progressive and 1 Socialist. This year the Republicans gained one, while the Democrats lost one. The Progressives lost their sole representative, Hamilton Fish, of Putnam, who failed to run. The Socialists, who won out over their Republican and Democratic opponents by the narrow margin of five votes.
